After having last weekend’s season-opening series cancelled due to inclement weather, the 2010 baseball season will now get underway this weekend for the Truman State University Bulldogs, as the purple and white hit the road for a four-game series in Marion, Ill., to face rival-Quincy University at a neutral site.

The series will be held at the Marion Miners stadium.

The Bulldogs have 16 letterwinners returning from last year’s club, including a pair of MIAA all-conference players in senior OF Keaton Jones and sophomore C/DH Devon Myers. Fourth-year head coach Dan Davis added 11 newcomers and one assistant coach to this year’s club, as Truman looks to improve upon an 11-45 record in 2009.

Truman’s infield will once again be centered around sophomore SS Steven Rose, who hit .291 as a true freshman last season. Junior college transfer Mike Reese (.326 career batting average) will play 2B, making the Bulldogs very quick up the middle. Making the shift across the diamond this season will be junior Drew Garwood, who vacates the hot corner and takes residence at 1B, while freshman Jordan Howe is expected to get the nod at 3B to start the season as the other corner infelder.

Myers will handle the pitching staff behind the plate, while junior infielder/utilityman Luke Crader is expected to be the team’s designated hitter.

Two of the three outfield spots will remain the same from last season, as junior Kenny Swanson joins Jones, while freshman Brett Budd will handle everyday RF duties. Sophomore Tyler Stefan and junior Cody Stricklin will provide additional depth and speed to all three outfield positions.

One area the Bulldogs expect to improve this season is on the mound, as a pair of juniors – Kyle Veazey and Jordan McLaughlin – will be joined by Stefan and sophomore Ryan Trimble as the top-four in the rotation. Junior Michael Staehr could see time both as a starter and reliever, as he returns as Truman’s top pitcher from last season.

The Bulldogs went 11-45 last season, losing 14 games by three runs or fewer. However, many positives emerged from last year’s club, as Truman broke six team records – three offensive (hits, doubles and total bases) and three defensive (put-outs, assists and strikeouts).

SERIES INFO:
Truman and Quincy will be meeting for the 92nd-95th times in the program histories this weekend, as the Hawks hold a 63-28 lead all-time. The Bulldogs last defeated Quincy on April 23, 2008, at QU in a 6-4 win. The squads faced off twice last season - including once on Feb. 10 - with the Hawks winning both matchups.

JONES WATCH:
This season, all eyes will be on senior OF Keaton Jones, as he starts the season with 157 total hits, 34 behind Patrick Hardin’s career mark of 191.

Jones also needs 11 doubles to tie the all-time mark (he has 29 entering the season) and 46 RBIs to tie that all-time mark (76 entering the season).

A LOOK AT QUINCY:
Quincy will be hitting the diamond for the first time also this weekend after being picked fourth in the GLVC West preseason poll. QU went 30-25 overall last season and return eight starting field players and two starting pitchers from last season’s squad.

UP NEXT:
After losing the first weekend of the season due to weather, the Bulldogs lost out on quality time to get ready for MIAA play - which starts next weekend for ten of the 11 conference squads.

For Truman, a challenge awaits out of the gate, as preseason No. 1 Emporia State is set to host the ‘Dogs for a four-game series in Emporia, Kan., next Friday through Sunday.
